Writing the Short Story

Have you always dreamed of becoming a writer, but you have trouble getting the words to work? Do you have a burning desire to create a short story but don't know how to begin? Well, here's your chance to turn your dreams into reality. In this class, you'll learn step-by-step the key components of the short story. You'll learn how to begin a story and how to end it. We'll discuss structure, characterization, details, theme, setting, metaphor, and other important elements needed to turn your thoughts into a clever story that people will love to read.

Part of our time will be spent on reading and discussing classic short stories from well-known authors. By the end of this class, you should have a completed short story ready for publishing! Oh, yes, we'll even talk about how and where to publish your story for the world to read. Share your talents. Join us for a fun-filled learning experience that's sure to change how you write and the way you look at a story. Instructor Gerard Bianco holds an MFA in Writing. He is an author, copywriter, editor, and writing coach.
